PROS AND ANTIS BRING OUT FACTS

Some Say it is Beneficial, Others Say it is Not-Ministers Should Play on Greens.

NEW YORK, July 22. The man Chicago 48 who listens to the pro and con argu- St. Louis 46 ments on golf and then tries to form Pittsburgh 43 38 a definite conclusion as to the good Newark 43 or harm in the game ultimately will Buffalo 28 be cast into a padded cell.

Golf, according to the pros, cures nervousness-and it creates nervous- Indianapolis 49 nese, according to the con men. It's Kansas City 48 a great game for ministers—and it's Minneapolis 46 the worst game a minister can play. Louisville 42 It develops character-and it tears Milwaukee 41 It down. It grows hair on bald heads Cleveland 39 -and it causes men to lose their hair. Columbus 34 Golf is everything that is good-and golf is the superlative of wicked.

The general opinion has been that ministers should fight shy of the golfing game. Golf develops many annoying situations. Golf causes a loss of temper and cass words bring the only relief. If cussing is part of golf a minister shouldn't monkey around with golf balls, golf clubs and such, That's been the common belief, Should Play.

But now comes Rev. Daniel T. Denman, writing in the Golfers' magazine, who says-and most emphatically says-that ministers should play

"A minister is beset with danger," says Rev. Denman. "One of the greatest dangers he faces is that he will cease to be human unless he devotes a certain part of his time to some health-giving sport. Therefore, he should try golf.

"If a minister ceases being human -if he becomes all spiritual-he loses his hold on men, especially on young men. There is nothing that will keep a man human more than occasionally engaging in sport. And there is no better sport than golf.

"A minister should play golf because it keeps him out in the open because it gives him beneficial exerelse and develops the ability to coordinate brain and muscle in doing a thing of skill. Golf reveals unsuspected resources; it cultivates the grace of body; it calls up courage and brings out the fighting spirit. It gives the minister a physical dominance which serves him well in the presence of men." Quite a flock of medical gents have come right out in the open and said that golf is such a trying game that it will put a man's nerves completely on the blink. They've said that many sweet tempered nerveless gents have taken up golf and after clinging to the game for a while have suffered ruined dispositions, contracted nerves and other nasty ailments such as loss of temper, fretfulness, and inclination to use profanity upon the slightest provocation. Defends Game.

But a medical champion has arisen All Stores Will Shut Doors Durto defend the golfing game. He's Dr. Sheldon Levitt, who writes in the Golfers' magazine that "Golf does not breed nervousness." The strangest part of Dr. Levitt's article is that he
